paraly, with this material agreement... power to confer must be temporary in its duration... and the President will receive their respective powers from a distinct public election...

The practical result of the vote of Saturday... in favour of the motion to suspend the... of Prince Louis Napoleon to the chief office in the Republic, unless some public catastrophe, some coup d'etat, or some insurrection on his part, should interfere with his progress of success...

What was the purpose of this vote?... The point after that, and which was the subject of the debate, was whether the President should be elected for a term of five years, or for a term of ten years...

It is, however, for the jury that our chief... must be reserved. "Truly, firmly, and conscientiously," the jury should be selected, and performed a most painful duty...

LIVERPOOL, Monday, Oct. 10. By the Royal mail steam ship, Mysore, Captain Lord, we will receive a great quantity of goods from New York to the 27th, and from Halifax to the 30th ult. The steamer, Captain Lord, will arrive at Boston on the 10th ult. The steamer ship, America, Captain Lord, will arrive at Halifax and New York on the 20th, within one day's sail of the latter port.

Notwithstanding the published declaration of Mr. C. that he declined to be nominated for the Presidency, a section of the Whigs held a meeting on the 9th, for the purpose of nominating him as their candidate. This meeting was disorderly and unproductive, and was dissolved by the police.

A letter from General Taylor to the Independent Whig, in Baltimore, some time after the meeting of the Philadelphia Convention, has appeared in the newspapers. It is worded in a very independent and candid style. In conclusion, he says: "I had heard to repeat the opinions of those who had been offered for me; and while I feel conscious of no change of feeling or inconsistency on my part, I cannot but be gratified to see that you are so generally satisfied with my conduct as to have placed my name in nomination for the office of President of the United States."

The whole of the Whig press in London has been occupied with the discussion of the merits of the candidates for the Presidency. The Whigs have been divided into two parties, the one of whom are in favour of Mr. Fremont, and the other of whom are in favour of Mr. Fremont.
