Listed here are the names, locations and circumstances known about the South Africans detained under terms of the Terrorism Act as of 18 September 1975. Accuracy is extremely difficult because of the secrecy surrounding actions of the security police and the fright they induce throughout the country. This information comes from many sources, chiefly from the Christian Institute, the Johannesburg-based association recently declared by the Pretoria regime to be an "Affected Organization".

Most of these detainees are members or associates of one or more of the following: South African Students Organization (SASO); South African Students Movement (SASM); Black Peoples Convention (BPC); National Youth Organization (NAYO); Black Allied Workers Union (BAWU); National Union of South African Students (NUSAS).
