March 21 through April 6 has been designated by the American Committee on Africa as the nationwide Weeks of Anti-Apartheid Action. The dates are significant: it was 25 years ago in March that the Sharpeville massacre took place in South Africa, in which 69 unarmed Black people protesting against the pass laws were killed by police. April 6 marks the second anniversary of the execution of Solomon Mahlangu, a member of the African National Congress who was captured and hung by South African authorities.

A number of activities have been organized in the Boston area to mark the Weeks of Action. Events denoted by "BU*" are part of South Africa Awareness Weeks at Boston University, sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts Forum. For times and locations of the BU events, call the CLA Forum at 353-4109 or 353-4110. In addition, events sponsored by the Free South Africa Movement/TransAfrica will be announced by recorded message at 437-0228.

- MARCH 18 -- Martin Luther King III will speak on "South Africa and the Apartheid System". BU*.
- MARCH 20 -- "Life in South Africa: A Students' View", evening of discussion with South African students. BU*.
- MARCH 21 -- "You Have Struck A Rock", a film on women in South Africa, followed by a talk by Wellesley Prof. Barbara Brown. BU*.
- MARCH 25 -- "South Africa and Central America: Israel's Role in the Third World", a talk by Israeli peace activist Benjamin Beit-Hallahmi. See other side for details.
- MARCH 26 -- "Legal Foundations of Apartheid", a talk by BU Law School Professor Robert Seidman. BU*.
- MARCH 28 -- "Multinational Corporations and South Africa", a talk by Ann Seidman, author and research associate, Oxfam America. BU*.
- MARCH 30 -- "Freedom Music", an evening devoted to Black South Africans and Soviet Jews. Sponsored by BU Hillel and UMOSHA. 8 pm, Morse Auditorium. BU*.
- APRIL 2 -- "Report from the Battlefront", a slide presentation and talk on South Africa and Namibia by David Goodman, journalist recently returned from southern Africa. See other side for details.
- APRIL 4 -- Major rally and demonstration, Harvard University. Speakers and time to be announced. For further information contact Todd Lee at 868-4956 or Evan Grossman at 498-6056.