Dear Patron of South African Airway:

Welcome aboard South African Air. God-willing, the flight will go smoothly and uneventfully, and you will arrive safely at your destination. South African law now insists that we give you the following questionnaire for you to fill out in transit. You are required to give it to the Customs agent upon arrival in South Africa. While this might seem cumbersome, we're sure you'll understand that this is necessary to help South African Airways increase the efficiency of our operation, and to help the government of South Africa develop more effective psychological profiles and weed out potential trouble-makers trying to undermine our way of life. So please take a few moments to fill it out, and remember, South African law requires you to submit it upon your arrival. Thank you for flying South African Air. Have a pleasant journey.

Please answer the following questions yes or no:

1. Are you bringing with you any weapons that you plan to sell or give to blacks in South Africa? yes no Do you know anyone else who may be doing so? yes no

2. Did you ever invite a black to visit your house, either in South Africa or in the United States? yes no

3. Would you still fly South African Air if we were forced to change our "whites only" policy? yes no Should we allow white people to bring their black maids and personal valets onboard, or would that be going too far? yes no

4. As you know, not a single African state permits us to fly over their territory. We are the only airline in the world so excluded, and frankly, we find this blatantly discriminatory. Consequently, once we move out over the Atlantic Ocean, you will have an excellent view of the sea (if you are not flying at night) for many hours before re-fueling on a small friendly Island, and then taking off over the ocean again. Should we be forced to make an emergency water landing (there being no other place to land), would you require any special assistance beyond instructions on your life preserver? yes no

5. We have been faced repeatedly with all sorts of disruptive protests at our offices in the U.S. and at airports against our way of life. Sometimes, disruptors even come aboard the aircraft. Did you encounter any protests before or during your flight? yes no Mostly, they are simply arrested, go to jail for a few days, and released. Do you think we should encourage the U.S. government to take stronger measures against them, similar to the way we do it in South Africa? yes no With repeat offenders, should we beef up our own security force and lay the whip on them, or shoot them? yes no

6. In case the black upsurge in South Africa should worsen during your stay, have you made arrangements to hasten to a coastal area? yes no If not, which body of water would you prefer to be near (the black revolutionaries have threatened to drive all whites 'into the sea')? Atlantic Ocean yes no Indian Ocean yes no Antarctic sea yes no Would you like us to make provisions for you to "escape", should the need arise? yes no

7. Would you be willing to relocate to a white bantustan, should the need arise? yes no

8. Do you think South African Airways should store nuclear weapons at its airport facilities? yes no On-board the aircraft, just in case? yes no

9. Did you know that South African Airways is owned by the government? yes no Does this knowledge make you feel more comfortable and secure? yes no

10. Finally, we wish to thank you again for flying with us. The money for your ticket, as with the money spent inside the Union of South Africa, helps strengthen our government and thus, our way of life. Thank you for filling out the questionnaire. We hope to clamp down a little better in the future. One last question? Do you have relatives living in South Africa? yes no Do you know of anyone, or any activities, that we should be keeping an eye on? yes no
