SOUTHERN AFRICA, a 36 page monthly magazine covering the struggle for liberation in Southern Africa. Current news and political and economic background, analysis of developments in South Africa, Namibia, Zimbabwe, Angola, Mozambique and the whole region. News that doesn't appear elsewhere—Pentagon schemes for the Indian Ocean and South Africa, interviews with the liberation movements, apartheid's growing links with Latin America and Iran, stories on women's organizations, social reconstruction and liberation support activities in the US. One year subscription (11 issues): individual—$8, institutional—$18. Outside US postage cost added. Write SOUTHERN AFRICA, 156 Fifth Avenue, Room 707B, New York, NY 10010.

The American Committee on Africa (ACOA), founded in 1953, is devoted to supporting the African people in their struggle for independence. ACOA programs and projects inform and mobilize Americans to work for policies which support African freedom.

The Africa Fund (associated with ACOA) aids the health, educational and agricultural programs of Africans struggling for independence, and provides legal and humanitarian aid to the victims of apartheid and colonialism. The Fund conducts research, publishes and distributes resources on southern Africa.
